THOMAS F. BAILEY PRESIDENT
JUDGE OF BEDFORD COUNTY.

Word is being passed around that Hon. Thomas F. Bailey of Huntingdon County is being spoken of in connection with an appointment to the Supreme Court Bench by Gov. Brumbaugh. We do not know another jurist in the state that would fill the bill so well and so ably as would Thomas F. Bailey. He knows the law and will render his decisions in conformity to it. Bedford County courts have been extremely elevated since Mr. Bailey has come to the bench. There is no more political wire pulling before cases are heard. The case goes on its merits. The lawyers don't befuddle the issue either before him. We would hate to lose Judge Bailey but we would also be glad to see him elevated to the Supreme court. It would be a star in the crown of that here-to-fore discredited body in days when the politicians formed decisions and the court rendered them.

Take it Judge, if offered. Your field will be the state and not a district.

SNYDER'S TRAVELETTE

After leaving Artemas section and catching John Lawhead at work once I drove over the ridge to the Oliver Fisher farm now owned by Miss Eutropius Rohrbaugh who subscribed for two Gazettes. I again crossed a big hill to Hiram and Alva Jays and on out past Milton Deffibaugh. He somehow got an inkling and had taken the whole family away, locked the doors and thus escaped a food inspection. After spending a night with Jonas Morse and his good wife who was once my schoolmate, I went again over a big hill to Snyder Bros. Big Baltz and Little Will are yet bachelors without prospects. Their little sister Caroline weight 324 was fixing to leave but delayed too long. She left though for Ohio on Tuesday. I also visited Owen Snyder and his little wee wife on the Abiah Akers farm which they bought and are raking in the shekels fast. I also visited Wm Layton, He had just returned from a hospital where they had opened his "inwards". He is past his fourscore years and does nothing but eat. He is nearly blind but will have the Gazette read to him by his grand-daughter Cora, who is taking care of him and keeping him out of mischief. Mr. and Mrs. George Andrews have moved to the city of Mattie. Nuf sed. Leaving this section I went toward Robinsonville at Dan Miller's I met for the second time Miss Amy Bishop, a buxom girl of 88years, who still retains her ability to talk to a fellow. Passing along down Little Creek I reached the home of Elias Mills where I was pressed in for food inspection and enjoyed it 100 per cent. Next day I was drafted again to take dinner with Mrs. W. H. Rice who was one of my nice little girl pupils before she became Rice's cook. Mr. Rice took me to be Victor Barkman which I did not appreciate as there is about 35 years difference in our ages and I am much the better looking. However the neighbors tell it that he is half asleep when awake. After bobbing around that section I drove to Robinsonville and from there to see how "purty" Mrs. Leighty had become and thence to Mrs. Jennie Robinson's who has been taking the Gazette for many years and subscribed for two more copies for friends, which is the proper caper. Next station was Shipley Bros. I got through the town of Purcell without being arrested except to eat the Shipley boys back a few notches. At most of the places I stopped of nights they use the straw bed ticks which are the best ever made. At Shipley's the tick had not been broken in yet and I fell out of bed once but after kneeling it down I got in again. Breaking in newly filled straw bed ticks used to be lots of fun, especially for newly married couples. Enroute up Big Creek Valley I found George W. Nycum. Years ago this section had plenty of Nycums, all good singers, but now all are gone but George and his singer is rusty. "Rosalie" of Chapman Run was

HIGH SCHOOL
GIVEN TO PUBLIC

Structure Named for Principal Donor
J. Leonard Replogle, Is Dedicated for Educational purposes—Steel
Man Talks

Last Thursday was a big day for the people of New Enterprise, and one that will long be remembered by the people of that enterprising community. The day's doings will go into history as the big event of the year 1918 and the memory will remain fresh in the minds of the people for many years to come.

The day was set apart to dedicate the new school building which was erected by South Woodbury township and the event was the signal for a general holiday in the community. The new school building, erected on the hill near the town was built at a cost of $24,500. The town and community had outgrown the old building that served its day and generation so well.

When it was decided to build, the building was designed for the future as well as the present and the town now boasts of one of the finest school structures in the county, if not one of the finest and best equipped small schools in the state.

NAMED FOR MR. REPROGLE.

J. Leonard Replogle, director general of federal steel plants, received his early education in the New Enterprise schools. When the new building was erected, Mr. Replogle was honored by having the building named the "J. Leonard Replogle school." Mr. Replogle was invited to be present at the dedication and he came to Altoona on Wednesday night, where he was met by his mother and brother from Johnstown and together they motored to the Bedford county town to be present at the dedication.

The exercises were held in the afternoon and also in the evening. Addresses were made at the afternoon meeting by Frank King, who delivered the address of welcome. L. H. Hinkle, J. Anson Wright, and Attorney Simon H. Sell delivered addresses. Simon H. Sell had the honor of being one of the teachers who directed the education of Mr. Replogle.

CROWNING EVENT.

The crowning event of the afternoon, however, was the address of Mr. Replogle. The address of the steel director was reminiscent and historical and was much appreciated by the large throng of people who had gathered from far and near to see and hear their distinguished school boy. At the conclusion of the address, he asked for the balance due on the building.

He was told that the building cost the district $24,500 and that the district had gone into debt for almost half that amount to build the structure. He then presented the board of directors with a check of sufficient size to clear all indebtedness.

A. H. WHETSTONE

PROMINENT CITIZEN AND BUSINESS MAN ACTIVE IN MORAL AND RELIGIOUS AFFAIRS.

Last Friday the whole county was shocked to learn that A. H. Whetstone, prominent merchant of Everett had passed away. Most of the people knew that he was confined to the house because of a nervous affection of the heart, no one dreamed of his death coming so soon or even at all. His most intimate friends were not overly alarmed at his condition, feeling that a little rest from business cares would be all that would be necessary to restore him to his usual good, vigorous health. But the summons came suddenly. His devoted assistants in the store were struck down in grief at the sudden news of his death and the community in general felt a depression in spirit at the news.

Mr. Whetstone was a man who was loyal and true to everybody. He had a host of friends every place. All who knew him loved him and he had the happy faculty of spreading sunshine wherever he was. He was deeply interested in moral movements and took a very active part in religious work, being for 25 years treasurer of the Reformed Church of Everett, two years superintendent of the Sunday school and for years was deacon and elder in the church and was Vice Pres of the Bedford County Sabbath Association, M. H. Kramer President, and was a worker and officer in that organization for years.

He was born in East St Clair township September 8, 1857, on the property now owned by Noah Thomas about one mile south of New Paris. He then lived on the Valley Road about three miles north of Schellsburg and then on the Natchian Crissman property near Fishertown Station.

When he was 16 years old he attended Normal School at Bedford and later at Schellsburg and taught school for seven terms in East St Clair township. He then went to Mann's Choice to clerk for Mr. Gregory, a merchant and in 1881 at the age of 23 he went to Everett to clerk and later at Schellsburg and taught for J. B. Williams and later for Masters, May & Co. Feb 23, 1889 he started into business for himself on a small scale in the now, McClure building, then Johnson building and in 1894 he moved to the present stand. He has grown in business until the present lower room was not sufficient so he opened a cloak and suit department on the second floor, and recently he decided to occupy both rooms on the ground floor the repairs and alterations not being complete when he died.

On October 8, 1884 he was united in marriage to Edith M. Blackburn, sister of A. C. Elias and W. B. Blackburn who survives with two sons, Paul, Adjuster for Aetna Life Insurance Company for Eastern Pa. located at Scranton, and Allen, with the business in Everett.

His parents were John and Catharine Horn Whetstone, his mother being a sister of Joseph Horn, of the Joseph Horn Co., big merchants of Pittsburgh. There were eleven children in the family and Mr. Whetstone was the last of the family to pass away.

In his business life he was an assiduous worker and became the largest general merchant in Bedford Co., his business for 1917 reaching $75,000. He has been a director in the First National Bank, Everett since its inception 14 years ago, a member of the school board for several years, treasurer of the Bedford County Directors' Association for a couple of years and was appointed by President Woodrow Wilson to represent Bedford County in the War Savings stamp Drive and to which undertaking he assigned his entire time for the last three or four months. He saw to the advertising for this patriotic enterprise and organized the districts in person. Organized the postmasters in the county and gave his personal attention to every detail. It could well be said that he sacrificed his life for the welfare of his country just the same as the soldier at the front. Everett will miss Mr. Whetstone. Bedford County will miss him because in his quiet way he was known far better than any man in it and always known for his strict integrity in every way.

MANY ITEMS OF INTEREST

Gleaned From Various Sources—
Little Points Picked Up By Vigilant Reporters.

Grover T. Hite was advertised last week by the Draft Board as a deserter or slacker. Mr. Hite is in the service having enlisted Dec. 13, 1917.

The Red Cross Drive amounted to about $1,100 and when the whole amount contributed is paid the subscriptions will total $1200 or over. Our quota is $3,000 so Bedford is falling behind in Patriotism. There are some slackers and some evaders. Some wouldn't contribute when they could and some locked the door when the solicitors came up.

Mr. J. A. Hartman and wife, Miss Reta Mock and Miss Mary Schnably motored to Morgantown, W. Va. yesterday.

We received a card Monday stating that Dr. J. C. Anderson from Schellsburg, Lieutenant arrived safely in France. His address is Lt. J. C. Anderson, M. R. C., Ambulance Co., 42, A. E. F.

Dept. Sheriff, Royal Barkman, went to Pittsburgh Monday to bring back young Manspeaker of Hopewell Township who is alleged to have stolen a ford automobile from Squire Imler of Woodbury last year. Squire's son had won this automobile in a contest last year.

Com. clerk George Shuck received a card from Fred L. Arnold stating that he has been wounded, admitted to the hospital and is getting along well.

Miss Maggie Foster of Johnstown, is home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Foster this summer on a vacation.

The Bedford County Chapter will not be able to publish a report of the Campaign in this issue of the county papers, for the reason that few complete reports are in to date, and some districts have continued the drive several days expecting to reach their quota.

Reports to date are very pleasing and we expect to have complete returns in by the coming week, at which time a tabulated report will be rendered to the public.

visiting her mother down there and ordered the Gazette sent to her mother which is a good sign of a good girl. I stopped at Ed. Mills' to see how he was treating Sadie Weimer whom he married long years ago. Every thing was O. K. there. He, like many others in that valley, has made a good farm out of a poor one and is making money too. Most every body in that section has improved in looks except George Fletcher; nothing doing on his mug. John Barkman is "purtier" than George, but Nim Shipley is a close competitor for both, am saying about Bart Jay. I also called to see my old girl at Jennie Logue's. She hadn't her Sunday fixin's on like she used to have but she promised to doll up for next visit. It takes too long and too much writing to tell of all the doings and sayings of all the people I saw and got as subscribers but my buggy was about full when I reached Herman Barkman's on Friday evening so that the buggy was cracked. I got enough more on Clear Ridge to run "Over the top" till I got to Hughes O'Neals. He was lying on the couch grunting about the rheumatism but I left him trying to put ten matches on five piles which he will never get unless Silie Fletcher goes out to read his Democratic paper and then shows him how. I won a quarter off him anyhow. It was just like the one I got off Pete Smith.

The farmers in all that section are getting the lime fever which is the thing to keep up. Lime and red slate land will fatten the horses, hogs and pocket books. Harry Fletcher intends to sell trucks to the farmers after which the whole country will be white-washed. And the farms will flow with milk and honey if the bees don't do as they did last winter-freeze. When Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Dolly moved up from Maryland to the old Snyder farm and in a few days afterward were snowed in with Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

that big April snow they thought they would freeze sure but they are living yet and full of hope now since all the neighbors survived and the sun is again shining and all the time moved up an hour. Since I have gotten so far behind myself in these travelettes I will now jump a few cogs and catch up with myself. Coming by "The Willows" on the Lincoln Highway I just had to stop at Mrs. Amicks and there for the first time I met "cheer-up" whose mode of navigation is only with a wheeled chair. She seemed the happiest girl I saw on the whole trip. While many are trying to get all of the earth she is enjoying life and happy as a big sunflower. "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof". No man can make a cubic yard of earth and if he could he would find no place to put it except on that already made by the Creator and he would then be a trespasser on God's footstool.

One day I drove out by the Springs and down the Sweet Root road. First man encountered was John Mowry who threw up his hands to the time of $1.50 and the next was F. E. Thompson. Thompson has a clinch on his crutch that he ought to have patented. First thing he knows Charley Wertz will be using it. Farther down I saw an old duffer in the field planting corn which proved to be Tom Drenning. I didn't know him at first because he had recently had a hair cut. He and Charley Wertz are competitors on hair but Tom has Charley skinned a mile. His wife is better.

Tobolsk Gives Promise.

Tobolsk is the mere beginning of a city. Some day a great metropolis will stand there. Tobolsk today is what St. Louis or Chicago was a hundred years ago. The half million square miles of the province of Tobolsk include huge areas of rich land, although the northern reaches are lapped by the Arctic ocean. Already a great part of it is sown in wheat and the cattle are increasing from year to year. With the building of railways these great Siberian plains will tell the story of our own West over again.

Definition of a Gentleman.

A man that is clean inside and out, who neither looks up to the rich nor down on the poor; who can lose without bragging; who is considerate of women, children and old people; who is too brave to lie, too generous to cheat, and lets other people have theirs.—Exchange.

GOODRICH TESTED TIRES

HERE's a lot of geography in the wear of tires. Some wear well in one region, and wear out in another. Climate, peculiar roads and road conditions are the cause of it. Therefore, good service in a single region is not enough proof of tires that must undergo nationwide use. Least of all could it measure tires up to the TESTED standard, Goodrich demands of tires.

With a command to find out what Goodrich Tires do on the roads of every section of our country, and what the roads of every section do to Goodrich Tires, Goodrich sent its famous Six Fleets of over forty cars, light and heavy, the length and breadth of our nation to an aggregate mileage of 1,044,686 linear miles, and 4,178,744 tire miles.

The Pacific Fleet contributed 166,960 miles on desert paths and coast highways; the Mountain Fleet 55,796 through the Rocky Mountains; The Dixie Fleet 3,285,860 in the South and North Midland; the Prairie Fleet 198,744 on the Great Plains; The Lake Fleet 217,372; and The Atlantic Fleet 254,012 on a grand tour of many tours ranging from Virginia, through New England, and back to the City of Goodrich.

Throughout this road roughing, SILVERTOWN CORDS, and BLACK SAFETY TREADS, proved themselves the tires of durability and dependability wherever you go in our broad land. They verified all the good qualities of Goodrich Tires, and revealed many new virtues.

Get the economy, the comfort and certainty of such proven service by demanding the tires proved out in 4,178,744 miles over American roads— "America's Tested Tires."

Yours is the daring skill to tread
The waters of a world at war;
Yours is the miracle to shed
Where rocking seas of hatred are,
Courage and comfort, like a star.
You cry unto an earth dismayed,
And God is thrilling in your tone:
"Brothers, the ship is not alone;
Be not afraid!"

Ye are the Christs of this black hour,
The Great Physician come again,
Within your sacred hands the power
To heal the race of men.
Ye hold the hurt world to your breast;
Ye bind her bruised and broken soul;
The sick, the maimed and the oppressed—
Yours is the gift to make them whole.
And where the stricken miles unroll
Ye sound the resurrection morn;
Above the bier where Justice lies,
With visions of an age new born,
Ye bid the dead arise!

O World, that walkest now in tears
Where Truth again is crucified
After the thousand, thousand years—
See yet that Christ is not denied!

Let Uncle Sam have the coal

Thousands of tons of coal will be saved this summer in homes that formerly used a kitchen range all during the hot weather. These homes are going to use oil cook stoves so there will be more coal next winter and therefore more for the government. Will your home be one of them? It should be.

NEW PERFECTION OIL COOK-STOVES

will be in the majority of these homes and there should be one in yours. You will not only save coal—you will save money. Kerosene is far cheaper than coal. And with a New Perfection you can have the same good things to eat and with less work, trouble and time. It doesn't heat up the whole kitchen like a coal fire does, either. You can regulate the heat exactly as you want it. No fire to fix. No ashes to bother with. Many good cooks prefer to use a New Perfection the year 'round.

But they get the best results (and you will too) when they use Atlantic Rayolight Oil instead of ordinary kerosene. The difference is in the quality—the way it is refined and purified. All waste matter is taken out. All the heat-producing elements are left in. Atlantic Rayolight is a superior kerosene yet the price is no more than for the other kinds. There's a dealer near you who sells Atlantic Rayolight Oil. Look for the sign, "Atlantic Rayolight Oil For Sale Here." Decide right now that you will have a New Perfection Oil Cook Stove this summer. Your dealer can show you one now. Go and see it today.

Shrinking From Death.

Is it quite fair to dub a man a coward because he is "afraid to die?" Death, the prospect of it, even when it lies many years ahead, makes many of us quake. What, then, of the death that the air, full of whining bullets, shells, bombs, grenades, holds? "All that a man hath will he give for his life" is very true, and to shrink from death is but human and natural.--London Tit-Bits.

The Heart Is Very Busy.

Your heart is a very busy organ. While you breathe once, it beats four times, says Popular Science Monthly. At each beat it sends four pounds of blood through your veins and arteries. The weight of the circulating blood is 20 pounds. When you run, your legs and the other parts of your body need more blood, so your heart must pump faster.

Aircraft Standardized.

It is less than a score of years since the first heavier-than-air machine successfully carried a passenger into the air. It is less than 15 years since the art of controlling such a craft was imparted by the inventor to another, yet today aircraft have been standardized and factories turn them out with the ease that motorcar builders produce their product.

Where are the seats the borough had in former years to place on the public square? Our boys Tuesday had to sit on the ground.

Edgar R. Smith wishes to thank the voters who supported him and says he expects Dr. Gump to support him as he would have supported Dr. Gump had he won out. If that be so Bill Brice is making a fool out of A. B. Egolf since Egolf turns heaven and earth for Smith. Can't he get anything in return? Or has he gone over altogether?

Newspapers Make Mistakes.

The newspapers make mistakes, but when you consider a reasonably careful paper's utterances and then listen to the way people tell things in the ordinary conversation that goes upon the street and over the back yard fences, you are forced to conclude that the newspaper is a shining and immortal paragon of truth and accuracy.

Quick Made Cornbread

Here is a quick cornbread. Our grandmothers used to bake it on a board before the open fire. You can bake it in your oven. Two cups cornmeal; two teaspoons of fat; one teaspoon salt; one and three-quarter cups boiling water. Pour the boiling water over the other materials. Beat well. When cool, form into thin cakes and bake thirty minutes in hot oven. Make 14 cakes. These crisp little cakes are good with butter or gravy. Eat them with your meat and vegetables. Do you know cornmeal? Its use means service to your country nourishing food for you. Try cornbread and see how good it can be. There are many kinds. You will wonder why you didn't use it every day before the war. It is very nourishing, too. A cup of cornmeal gives even more fuel to your body than a cup of wheat flour.

Hoenstine Goes to the Colors

Tuesday at 4.30 Warren S. Hoenstine, Democratic candidate for the legislature with 40 other young men of Bedford County, entered the service of Uncle Sam. Mr. Hoenstine did not file any claim for exemption but went with the rest of the boys like a man and expects to stand up for his country no matter what befalls him in the election next November. He has the patriots blood, and not the blood of a slacker. He knows that his country needs him more than the legislature of Pennsylvania needs him and he is not entering any plea of exemption because he is a candidate nor because he is disqualified in any way whatever. He goes when his country calls him and his patriotic duty calls him and this is to the trenches in France. If that is not a fitting tribute for any red-blooded, loyal and patriotic voter to recognize then we cannot see any. Mr. Hoenstine is no slacker and if he cannot win his election by doing his duty on the battle front and in the trenches, he knows no better service nor greater sacrifice to command the respect of the people.

ADVICE TO YOUNG PEOPLE

It is a fact, and we feel it more and more every day, that old people live in the past. Today is not their day, and they pass over the most tremendous events with indifference. It is the recollection of some good deed, some charitable act, some cup of cold water on a blazing hot day, some little gift to a needy fellow-traveler,—it is these small happenings in youth that come up from the dim past to cheer us and make life seem not altogether barren and unfruitful. So we say to the young, prepare for a happy old age by doing the kind and considerate thing NOW. As Margaret G. Hays expresses it: What will you do, when you are old, When Memory holds no flowers, No thought of wondrous, joyous thrills, Of happy golden hours?

So while Youth lingers with you—NOW;
Before your heart grows cold—Today, begin to make a past,
To live in when you're old.

DEFIANCE

George Little, Tyrone, Pa., an employee of the P. R. R. Co., is home at this writing on a brief leave of absence, the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Little.

Archie Satterfield, one of Uncle Sam's boys stationed at St. Paul, Minn., returned to camp last Thursday after a visit of 5 or 10 days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Satterfield, and with friends at Defiance. Archie seems to enjoy army life.

Raymond Johnston, Lenwood Satterfield and Leo Brennen, three of our town boys, expect to enlist in the near future, the first one in the Heavy Artillery and the other two in the Navy. At least so the writer was informed.

William Eisenhart, a former resident of Defiance, has returned to our town and is now domiciled in his own house recently purchased from Michael Collins. We welcome into our midst Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhart and wish them success. Mr. Collins and his daughter, Mrs. D. A. Aldstadt, have gone to Norristown, Pa., where they will be joined later by Mrs. Collins and her grandson, Master Harry David Aldstadt. To these, too, we extend best wishes.

Irvin Christner of Clearfield Co., Pa., brother of G. C. Christner, has moved into the Evans hotel property. Louie Wagner is having his houses on Main street treated to a coat of paint.

Salem Wentworth, one of our hustling merchants, returned today from a trip to Cleveland, Ohio, in company with Messrs. George and William Mile Run.

Misses LeVerna Mellott, Caroline Little, and Edna Wagner of Defiance attended a party at Riddlesburg last Saturday given by Mrs. Woodcock in honor of her Music pupils that graduated this year. It would be useless to ask the young ladies whether or not they had a good time for the reason that Mrs. Woodcock knows just how to make them have a good time.

Rev. J. P. Harris called at the home of H. H. Brumbaugh and they both went to Six Mile Run on an errand of Mercy.

The H. & B. T. R. R. Company is making some much-needed repairs on the track through our village. Some changes and a coat of paint on the house owned by the said company would add much to the appearance of the east end of Defiance. It looks rather lonely since the Colonial Iron Company has taken over the Brown houses and has "fixed" them up.

It is pleasing to us to know that we have a man at the head of our high school that is in demand as a speaker at Sunday School conventions as well as other religious meetings. Last Saturday night he made a splendid address at the Broad Top Dist. Convention at Riddlesburg and on Sunday afternoon he addressed the Liberty Dist. Convention at Saxton. His theme at both places was "Service." Prof. Mitchell has caught the spirit of the times and is doing valuable service.

Rev. Gorman, pastor of the M. E. Church, will give his second illustrated talk on Europe this Tuesday evening in the church at Defiance. Those who were present last Tuesday were highly pleased and invite their friends to accompany them to this meeting. These talks are entirely free to the public.

The young ladies of Defiance held a social in the J. H. Little Hall last Saturday evening to which they had invited a number of their gentlemen friends. Your scribe was not one among the honored guests and is therefore not in position to say anything about the inside doings. He heard more than he saw. They likely had a nice time for they came mighty high running into Sunday. We do not mean Sunday School for we were not there ourselves and therefore must not judge.

It is likely that we will lose another of our pedagogues as it is rumored that just last week Mr. David Thomas and Miss Varion Johnston hied off to Cumberland, Md., and had words said that made "two hearts beat as one." Both are splendid young folks and have our good wishes.

Owing to the strike that has been on for several weeks now, we have not been able to do much in this section with the War Savings Stamp Pledges and the Red Cross work. We hope for better conditions soon.

The following persons were at the home of and dined with Mr. and Mrs. Brumbaugh last Sunday:—Mrs. Ida C. Brumbaugh, her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Hoff and little daughter, Y'Dell, of Homestead, Pa., and Misses Lennis and Frances Hinkle, Master Carl Hinkle, and Oliver Appleman of Baker's Summit, Pa. The first mentioned is a sister-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Brumbaugh and all the Bakers Summit folks are cousins.

The returns of the primary election held last week seems to indicate that Broad Top township is not perfectly dried out yet and that the Temperance people need not count on this part of "God's moral vineyard" to change the color of the map of Pennsylvania from black to white. The results are largely due to the fact that the temperance people did not come out as they should have done and as we believe they will do at the general election.

ROUND KNOB

The farmers are all done planting corn and potatoes in our section and some are starting to plow for buckwheat.

Roy, Lloyd and Elmer Hinnish are busy cutting extract wood for Wade H. Figard.

Elmer Fulton of Finleyville ran over one of Harry Barber's children Saturday evening with his automobile in Coaldale. Mr. Fulton did not see the boy or neither did the boy see Mr. Fulton's car until it was too late to get out of the road. The boy is getting along as good as can be expected.

William Wright has purchased a tract of land of James L. Figard his brother in law and expects to erect a dwelling house on it this summer.

Albert Clark, was on Clear Ridge on Saturday visiting his aunt.

Raymond Figard, wife and daughter Ruth, Barton Walters and wife, Clarence Walters, Roy Hinish, Harvey Figard, Armelia Figard, Harry Thomas and wife, son Chester, Delbert Clark, visited at the home of Chester Watterson Sunday.

Peggy Ross had bad luck on Sunday last coming up the Well's Valley mountain road. He was walking behind his buggy when he saw a snake. He struck at the snake and the horse ran off making Peggy walk home.

Mike Goworty and wife and three children, Mrs. Clarence Figard and son, George, visited at the home of Albert S. Figard on Sunday.

Bridging the Gap From Steer to Steak

Live stock is raised on the farms and ranches of the West.

Meat is eaten in the large cities of the East, and by our boys in France — thousands of miles away.

The day of transporting live animals from ranch to seaboard and overseas has passed. There was too much waste. The modern packer locates his large and specialized plants in the producing regions. He ships the dressed beef in refrigerator cars, and holds it in his own refrigerated branch warehouses until delivered to the retailer. For shipment to foreign ports, he transfers the meat to refrigerated ships.

By means of his nation-wide organization the modern packer maintains a continuous flow of meats to all parts of the country, so that each retailer gets just the quantity and quality of meat his trade demands, and at the time he wants it.

Swift & Company recently shipped 1,000 carloads of meat products in one week to our Armies and to the Allies.

Bridging the gap from ranch to consumer can be done successfully—and at low unit costs and profits—only by large business organizations.

Swift & Company's profit on meat, always so small as to have practically no effect on prices, is now limited by the Government to about 2 cents on each dollar of sales.

Strengthen America

When a Man's Personal Liberty is Restricted

The state entrusts you with liberty to kill; so ciety trusts you with the liberty to steal; the state trust you with the liberty to murder," recently said Charles A. Windle, the eloquent defender of the saloon.

And this stuff gets across with some audiences!

Now, if Mr. Windle had added: "And liquor furnishes you with the inclination," he would at least have put SOME truth into the entire statement.

But let's see—

"The state entrusts you with the liberty to kill? Society trusts you with the liberty to steal?" SINCE WHEN? Doesn't society distinctly PROHIBIT killing and stealing? Doesn't it organize a police force to PREVENT men from killing and stealing?

Let this illustrious preacher of "personal liberty" try to kill or steal in the presence of a big six-foot policeman and he'll find out what becomes of his grandiloquent statement that society trusts him with the LIBERTY to kill and to steal!

He'll have his face punched and his head clubbed and he'll find himself landed in jail,—if he INSISTS upon his "personal liberty"—and he'll remain there because he's proven that he's a dangerous citizen—too dangerous to exercise the "personal liberty" of which he boasts.

No—God and society say very distinctly regarding these and other matters—"THOU SHALT NOT"—and this is plain "PROHIBITION."

As far as possible every reasonable measure is taken to prevent men from committing crime. And when they disobey the very reasonable laws which are framed for the safe-guarding of men as a whole they are punished by both God and society.

When the state—by a vote of the people—declares that the saloon is a bad thing, and the saloon business is abolished, then every good citizen respects this law, even at inconvenience to himself.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Gas Attacks and Spies.

Three days after we had silenced Fritz, the Germans sent over gas. It did not catch us unawares, because the wind had been made to order, that is, it was blowing from the German trenches toward ours at the rate of about five miles per hour.

Warnings had been passed down the trench to keep a sharp lookout for gas.

We had a new man at the periscope, on this afternoon in question; I was sitting on the fire step, cleaning my rifle, when he called out to me:

"There's a sort of greenish, yellow cloud rolling along the ground out in front, it's coming—"

But I waited for no more, grabbing my bayonet, which was detached from the rifle, I gave the alarm by banging an empty shell case, which was hanging near the periscope. At the same instant, gongs started ringing down the trench, the signal for Tommy to don his respirator, or smoke helmet, as we call it.

Gas travels quickly, so you must not lose any time; you generally have about eighteen or twenty seconds in which to adjust your gas helmet.

A gas helmet is made of cloth, treated with chemicals. There are two windows, or glass eyes, in it, through which you can see. Inside there is a rubber-covered tube, which goes in the mouth. You breathe through your nose; the gas, passing through the cloth helmet, is neutralized by the action of the chemicals. The foul air is exhaled through the tube in the mouth, this tube being so constructed that it prevents the inhaling of the outside air or gas. One helmet is good for five hours of the strongest gas. Each Tommy carries two of them slung around his shoulder in a waterproof canvas bag. He must wear this bag at all times, even while sleeping. To change a defective helmet, you take out the new one, hold your breath, pull the old one off, placing the new one over your head, tucking in the loose ends under the collar of your tunic.

For a minute, pandemonium reigned in our trench—Tommys adjusting their helmets, bombers running here and there, and men turning out of the dugouts with fixed bayonets, to man the fire step.

Re-enforcements were pouring out of the communication trenches.

Our gun's crew were busy mounting the machine gun on the parapet and bringing up extra ammunition from the dugout.

German gas is heavier than air and soon fills the trenches and dugouts, where it has been known to lurk for two or three days, until the air is purified by means of large chemical sprayers.

We had to work quickly, as Fritz generally follows the gas with an infantry attack.

A company man on our right was too slow in getting on his helmet; he sank to the ground, clutching at his throat, and after a few spasmodic twistings went West (died). It was horrible to see him die, but we were powerless to help him. In the corner of a traverse, a little, muddy cur dog, one of the company's pets, was lying dead, with his paws over his nose.

It's the animals that suffer the most—the horses, mules, cattle, dogs, cats and rats—they having no helmets to save them. Tommy does not sympathize with rats in a gas attack.

At times gas has been known to travel, with dire results, fifteen miles behind the lines.

A gas, or smoke helmet, as it is called, at the best is a vile-smelling thing, and it is not long before one gets a violent headache from wearing it.

Our eighteen-pounders were bursting in No Man's Land, in an effort, by the artillery, to disperse the gas clouds.

The fire step was lined with crouching men, bayonets fixed, and bombs near at hand to repel the expected attack.

Our artillery had put a barrage of curtain fire on the German lines, to try and break up their attack and keep back re-enforcements.

I trained my machine gun on their trench and its bullets were raking the parapet.

Then over they came, bayonets glinting. In their respirators, which have a large snout in front, they looked like some horrible nightmare.

All along our trench, rifles and machine guns spoke, our shrapnel was bursting over their heads. They went down in heaps, but new ones took the places of the fallen. Nothing could stop that mad rush. The Germans reached our barbed wire, which had previously been demolished by their shells, then it was bomb against bomb, and the devil for all.

Suddenly my head seemed to burst from a loud "crack" in my ear. Then my head began to swim, throat got dry, and a heavy pressure on the lungs warned me that my helmet was leaking. Turning by gun over to No. 2, I changed helmets.

The trench started to wind like a snake, and sandbags appeared to be floating in the air. The noise was horrible; I sank onto the fire step, needles seemed to be pricking my flesh, then blackness.

I was awakened by one of my mates removing my smoke helmet. How delicious that cool, fresh air felt in my lungs.

A strong wind had arisen and dispersed the gas.

They told me that I had been "out" for three hours; they thought I was dead.

The attack had been repulsed after a hard fight. Twice the Germans had gained a foothold in our trench, but had been driven out by counter-attacks. The trench was filled with their dead and ours. Through a periscope I counted eighteen dead Germans in our wire; they were a ghastly sight in their horrible-looking respirators.

I examined my first smoke helmet. A bullet had gone through it on the left side, just grazing my ear. The gas had penetrated through the hole made in the cloth.

Out of our crew of six we lost two killed and two wounded.

That night we buried all of the dead, excepting those in No Man's Land. In death there is not much distinction; friend and foe are treated alike.

After the wind had dispersed the gas the R. A. M. C. got busy with their chemical sprayers, spraying out the dugouts and low parts of the trenches to dissipate any fumes of the German gas which may have been lurking in same.

Two days after the gas attack I was sent to division headquarters, in answer to an order requesting that captains of units should detail a man whom they thought capable of passing an examination for the divisional intelligence department.

Before leaving for this assignment I went along the front-line trench saying good-by to my mates and lording it over them, telling them that I had clicked a cushy job behind the lines, and how sorry I felt that they had to stay in the front line and argue out the war with Fritz. They were envious but still good-natured, and as I left the trench to go to the rear they shouted after me:

"Good luck, Yank, old boy; don't forget to send up a few fags to your old mates."

I promised to do this and left.

I reported at headquarters with sixteen others and passed the required examination. Out of the sixteen applicants four were selected.

I was highly elated because I was, I thought, in for a cushy job back at the base.

The next morning the four reported to division headquarters for instructions. Two of the men were sent to large towns in the rear of the lines with an easy job. When it came our turn the officer told us we were good men and had passed a very creditable examination.

My tin hat began to get too small for me, and I noted that the other man, Atwell by name, was sticking his chest out more than usual.

The officer continued: "I think I can use you two men to great advantage in the front line. Here are your orders and instructions, also the pass which gives you full authority as special M. P. detailed on intelligence work. Report at the front line according to your instructions. It is risky work and I wish you both the best of luck."

My heart dropped to zero and Atwell's face was a study. We saluted and left.

That wishing us the "best of luck" sounded very ominous in our ears; if he had said "I wish you both a swift and painless death" it would have been more to the point.

When we had read our instructions we knew we were in for it good and plenty.

What Atwell said is not fit for publication, but I strongly seconded his opinion of the war, army and divisional headquarters in general.

After a bit our spirits rose. We were full-fledged spy-catchers, because our instructions and orders, said so.

We immediately reported to the nearest French estaminet and had several glasses of muddy water, which they called beer. After drinking our beer we left the estaminet and hailed an empty ambulance.

After showing the driver our passes we got in. The driver was going to the part of the line where we had to report.

How the wounded ever survived a ride in that ambulance was inexplicable to me. It was worse than riding on a gun carriage over a rock road.

The driver of the ambulance was a corporal of the R. A. M. C., and he had the "wind up," that is, he had an aversion to being under fire.

I was riding on the seat with him while Atwell was sitting in the ambulance, with his legs hanging out of the back.

As we passed through a shell-decayed village a mounted military policeman stopped us and informed the driver to be very careful when we got out on the open road, as it was very dangerous, because the Germans lately had acquired the habit of shelling it. The corporal asked the trooper if there was any other way around, and was informed that there was not. Upon this he got very nervous and wanted to turn back, but we insisted that he proceed and explained to him that he would get into serious trouble with his commanding officer if he returned without orders; we wanted to ride, not walk.

From his conversation we learned that he had recently come from England with a draft and had never been under fire, hence his nervousness.

We convinced him that there was not much danger, and he appeared greatly relieved.

When we at last turned into the open road we were not so confident. On each side there had been a line of trees, but now, all that was left of them were torn and battered stumps.

The fields on each side of the road were dotted with recent shell holes, and we passed several in the road itself. We had gone about half a mile when a shell came whistling through the air and burst in a field about three hundred yards to our right. Another soon followed this one and burst on the edge of the road about four hundred yards in front of us.

I told the driver to throw in his speed clutch, as we must be in sight of the Germans. I knew the signs; that battery was ranging for us, and the quicker we got out of its zone of fire the better. The driver was trembling like a leaf, and every minute I expected him to pile us up in the ditch. I preferred the German fire.

In the back Atwell was holding onto the straps for dear life, and was slinging at the top of his voice:

We beat you at the Marne,
We beat you at the Aisne,
We gave you hell at Neuve Chapelle,
And here we are again.

Just then we hit a small shell hole and nearly capsized. Upon a loud yell from the rear I looked behind, and there was Atwell sitting in the middle of the road, shaking his fist at us. His equipment, which he had taken off upon getting into the ambulance, was strung out on the ground, and his rifle was in the ditch.

I shouted to the driver to stop, and in his nervousness he put on the brakes. We nearly pitched out head-first. But the applying of those brakes saved our lives. The next instant there was a blinding flash and a deafening report. All that I remember is that I was flying through the air, and wondering if I would land in a soft spot. Then the lights went out.

When I came to, Atwell was pouring water on my head out of his bottle. On the other side of the road the corporal was sitting, rubbing a lump on his forehead with his left hand, while his right arm was bound up in a blood-soaked bandage. He was moaning very loudly. I had an awful headache and the skin on the left side of my face was full of gravel and the blood was trickling from my nose.

But that ambulance was turned over in the ditch and was perforated with holes from fragments of the shell. One of the front wheels was slowly revolving, so I could not have been "out" for a long period.

The shells were still screaming overhead, but the battery had raised its fire and they were bursting in a little wood about half a mile from us.

Atwell spoke up. "I wish that officer hadn't wished us the best of luck." Then he commenced swearing. I couldn't help laughing, though my head was nigh to bursting.

Slowly rising to my feet I felt myself all over to make sure that there were no broken bones. But outside of a few bruises and scratches I was all right. The corporal was still moaning, but more from shock than pain. A shell splinter had gone through the flesh of his right forearm. Atwell and I, from our first-aid pouches, put a tourniquet on his arm to stop the bleeding and then gathered up our equipment.

We realized that we were in a dangerous spot. At any minute a shell might drop on the road and finish us off. The village we had left was not very far, so we told the corporal he had better go back to it and get his arm dressed, and then report the fact of the destruction of the ambulance to the military police. He was well able to walk, so he set off in the direction of the village, while Atwell and I continued our way on foot.

Without further mishap we arrived at our destination, and reported to brigade headquarters for rations and billets.

That night we slept in the battalion sergeant major's dugout. The next morning I went to a first-aid post and had the gravel picked out of my face.

The instructions we received from division headquarters read that we were out to catch spies, patrol trenches, search German dead, reconnoiter in No Man's Land, and take part in trench raids and prevent the robbing of the lead.

I had a pass which would allow me to go anywhere at any time in the sector of the line held by our division. It gave me authority to stop and search ambulances, motor lorries, wagons and even officers and soldiers, whenever my suspicions deemed it necessary. Atwell and I were allowed to work together or singly—it was left to our judgment. We decided to team up.

Atwell was a good companion and very entertaining. He had an utter contempt for danger, but was not foolhardy. At swearing he was a wonder. A cavalry regiment would have been proud of him. Though born in England, he had spent several years in New York. He was about six feet one, and as strong as an ox.

We took up our quarters in a large dugout of the royal engineers, and mapped out our future actions. This dugout was on the edge of a large cemetery, and several times at night in returning to it, we got many a fall stumbling over the graves of English, French and Germans. Atwell on these occasions never indulged in swearing, though at any other time, at the least stumble, he would turn the air blue.

A certain section of our trenches was held by the Royal Irish rifles. For several days a very strong rumor went the rounds that a German spy was in our midst. This spy was supposed to be dressed in the uniform of a British staff officer. Several stories had been told about an officer wearing a red band around his cap, who patrolled the front-line and communication trenches asking suspicious questions as to location of batteries, machine-gun emplacements, and trench mortars. If a shell dropped in a battery, on a machine gun or even near a dugout, this spy was blamed.

The rumor gained such strength that an order was issued for all troops to immediately place under arrest anyone answering to the description of the spy.

Atwell and I were on the qui vive. We constantly patrolled the trenches at night, and even in the day, but the spy always eluded us.

One day while in a communication trench, we were horrified to see our brigadier general, Old Pepper, being brought down by a big private of the Royal Irish rifles. The general was walking in front, and the private with fixed bayonet was following in the rear.

We saluted as the general passed us. The Irishman had a broad grin on his face and we could scarcely believe our eyes—the general was under arrest. After passing a few feet beyond us, the general turned, and said in a wrathful voice to Atwell:

"Tell this d—n fool who I am. He's arrested me as a spy."

Atwell was speechless. The sentry batted in with:

"None o' that gassin' out o' yon. Back to headquarters you goes, Mr. Fritz. Open that face o' yours again, an' I'll dent in your napper with the butt o' me rifle."

The general's face was a sight to behold. He was fairly boiling over with rage, but he shut up.

Atwell tried to get in front of the sentry to explain to him that it really was the general he had under arrest, but the sentry threatened to run his bayonet through him, and would have done it, too. So Atwell stepped aside, and remained silent. I was nearly bursting with suppressed laughter. One word, and I would have exploded. It is not exactly diplomatic to laugh at your general in such a predicament.

The sentry and his prisoner arrived at brigade headquarters with disastrous results to the sentry.

The joke was that the general had personally issued the order for the spy's arrest. It was a habit of the general to walk through the trenches on rounds of inspection, unattended by any of his staff. The Irishman, being new in the regiment, had never seen the general before, so when he came across him alone in a communication trench, he promptly put him under arrest. Brigadier generals wear a red band around their caps.

Next day we passed the Irishman tied to the wheel of a limber, the beginning of his sentence of twenty-one days, field punishment No. 1. Never before have I seen such a woe-begone expression on a man's face.

For several days, Atwell and I made ourselves scarce around brigade headquarters. We did not want to meet the general.

The spy was never caught.

The Type Used in One Year to Publish Endorsements of Doan's Kidney Pills

Of the many kidney remedies on the market today, none other is recommended like Doan's Kidney Pills. Fifty thousand benefited people gladly testify in the newspapers of their own towns. Forty-five hundred American newspapers publish this home proof of Doan's merit. The type used in one year to tell this wonderful story would make a solid column of metal twice as high as the world's highest mountain. Placed end to end the lines of type would reach from New York to Chicago. These miles of good words told by 50,000 tongues sound glad tidings to any Bedford sufferer who wants relief from kidney and bladder ills. Here's a Bedford case. Don't experiment. Use the remedy endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. Martha Davidson, 357 W. Pitt St., says: "I was very nervous and had severe headaches. My back ached constantly and the least bit of work tired me. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I decided to give them a trial and got a box at Heckerman's Drug Store. In every way they acted just as represented and gave me prompt relief."

OVER SIX YEARS LATER, Mrs. Davidson says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills once in awhile since first endorsing them and they have kept me in good health."

The United Doctors is an organization of reputable, licensed, physicians for the treatment of certain diseases.

They are all specialists. The United Doctors treat, without Surgical Operations or hypodermic injections, diseases of the blood, skin, and all internal organs, rheumatism, sciatica, tape-worm, leg ulcers, weak lungs and all long standing, deep seated diseases.

Thirty-five years' experience and the complete records of thousands of cases successfully treated prove that the methods of the United Doctors are right. They were among the first to be called "Bloodless Surgeons."

Each member of the United Doctors staff has at his command the knowledge and resources of the whole organization.

Many people go on suffering from diseases that can be alleviated just because they cannot afford to go to high priced specialists at a distance from home.

No community has a sufficient number of sufferers from the diseases mentioned to support special hospitals for their treatment and cure.

The United Doctors have solved the problem. Their highly trained specialists travel from place to place. They diagnose and prescribe a course of treatment for the sufferers in each community and teach them how to take care of themselves at home.

Worn-out and run-down men or women, no matter what your ailment may be, no matter what you have been told, or the experience you have had with other physicians. If your case is incurable they will tell you so. Consult him upon his visit. It costs nothing.

Married ladies must come with their husbands and minors with their parents.

AT THE FIGHTING FRONT

It takes muscles of iron and nerves of steel—real men—men with red blood, men with the brawn to do and nerve to buck the line. Men "with a wallop," men with vim, vigor, are those who take "Ironitic," a new discovery, composed of iron and herbal extracts, and recently found to be a wonderful tonic for the manufacture of red blood within the body. Doctor Pierce and a dozen physicians at the Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., have long experimented and have at last found the best blood maker and nerve tonic known today. This they called "Ironitic." It's an iron tonic that puts new energy, life, stamina into the blood. "Ironitic" is to be procured of almost all druggists, in 60-cent vials. If you want to try it, send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial package. You will find "Ironitic" tablets equally as good and effective as Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which have been known for the past fifty years as a gentle herbal laxative. Folks at home have acquired the healthiest of habits. They become "regular as clock-work," after taking these "Pleasant Pellets." Easy to take.

Memorial Day

Once more our sons have gone forth to battle.

Once more the fight is being waged for American life, liberty and honor.

This is the accepted day of homage to those who already have laid down their lives that our Nation might live.

It is also a fitting time for us to pledge anew our heartiest support to those who today are facing the supreme sacrifice.

Let America to the last man, woman and child stand solidly behind the boys who are keeping aloft the banner of freedom.

Have You a Manure Pile?

If you have, get it out on your fields where it will do some good. No, not with a wagon. You waste a full third of it if you do it that way, and you have a hard, dirty, disagreeable job besides. The easy way is the paying way. Get a Low Corn King spreader that will tear the manure into small pieces, discharge its load in four to seven minutes, and spread it in an even coat over the entire surface of the ground. That's the way to use stable manure. Then you can depend upon an increase of crops yield without having to plant more acreage than you can care for. Look at present prices of farm produce. Raise all you can. Buy and use a

Low Corn King Manure Spreader

Wheels just the right distance apart, and spread wide enough to top dress three rows of corn at once. Three sizes—small, medium and large. All narrow boxes. All steel frames with working parts of the spreader securely attached to the frame. Turns short. Drive from both rear wheels. Return apron driven by worm gear which insures even spreading up hill and down. Pull comes straight on steel frame. Solid two-inch rear axle working in roller bearings carries seventy-five per cent of the load. All-steel beater cannot warp, shrink, or rot. Built up to International Harvester standards of quality in every respect.

Buy a Corn King spreader and use it. The increased yield from a few acres will pay for your spreader this year. Come in and place your order now.
